Program Eligibility

A. Definition

Bale Grazing is a method of setting winter feed (typically round bales) out ahead of winter feeding, when the soil is dry or frozen, and controlling the portions of feed the livestock have access to on a bi-weekly or more frequent basis, similar to strip grazing stockpiled forages in the fall. Livestock access is controlled with temporary fencing (polywire, high tensile wire, step in posts, t-posts).

B. Purpose

Bale Grazing will incentivize producers to consider an alternative to traditional winter-feeding practices. Similar to Stockpile Grazing, Bale Grazing is an alternative winter-feeding option that utilizes parts of the farm that typically are not fed on in the winter months.
